

NOONDAY

In Noonday, Pat Barker - the Man Booker-winning author of the definitive WWI trilogy, Regeneration - turns for the first time to WWII. Afterwards, it was the horses she remembered, galloping towards them out of the orange-streaked darkness, their manes and tails on fire... London, the Blitz, autumn 1940. As the bombs fall on the blacked-out city, ambulance driver Elinor Brooke races from bomb sites to hospitals trying to save the lives...

Reader's Opinions

I have a very high opinion of Pat Barker, and really enjoyed the first two books in this trilogy, but I found the final installment a bit patchy, and not up to her usual high standards. The book...

The third book in a trilogy that can stand-alone without reading the previous book but you certainly will want to when you finish this one. The story of Paul, Elinor and Kit who work as volunteer ambulance drivers in London during the blitz. A fascinating and frightening glimpse into people's lives in very harrowing times and people...
